Dr. El-Hajj Fuleihan was selected for the life-long Lown Scholar position in the Department of Population and Global Health at Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health.

This appointment will enhance international collaboration with the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health, and expand the CaMOP research horizons in NCDs with a global health approach. It will also provide rich databases to generate evidence of the burden of diseases specific to NCDs in Lebanon, and allow the development of prevention and intervention strategies that will impact society’s health. For further details please visit the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health–Lown Scholars website: https://www.hsph.harvard.edu/lowscholars/scholars/